Local Facts

Coccolith is inspired by the very creatures that, 65 million years ago, formed the chalky foundations of the North Downs Way and invites visitors to take a seat and immerse themselves in this rolling and quintessential landscape.

Built using traditional dry-stone wall techniques, using a hand-picked selection of local ironstone rock excavated from the Titsey Estate along with 'clunch' chalk for its earthy historical aesthetic and so as not to impinge on the natural beauty of the landscape.

St Mary's Church was built in the 11th - 12th century and is a Grade 2 listed building. A delightful church seating a congregation of approximately 60, set in a prominent position on high ground with extensive views to the South West. It is largely 11th and 13th century with Victorian and recent additions, all of which successfully complement one another.

The church is constructed of clunch with an infilling of flint and Kentish ragstone quoins and dressings. It has brick and stone buttresses with tiled shoulders and the Chancel and north side are rendered.
